NORFOLK, VA., June 30.—The Chamber of Commerce of Norfolk has sent a dispatch to the coal and coke agent of the Norfolk and Western Railway, asking him to meet a committee from the Chamber and the Norfolk Board of Trade here on Monday, to confer on coal rates to Norfolk. A reduction by the railway, effective to-morrow, of fifteen cents a ton, applies only to coal to be used in the manufacture of products which shall afterward be shipped over the Norfolk and Western line. Manufacturers not receiving the low rates of their favored competitors and coal dealers are much displeased at the action of the railway, and an effort will be made to force a uniform rate to all users of coal.

has been accessible only by prwate conveyance, and is expected to do more toward upbuilding Newport News and the lower Peninsula than anything that Traffic arrangements already have been agreed upon with the Chesapeake and Ohlo, and the farmers of Warwick, York and Elizabeth City counties may ship their products—over the Peninsula limb direct to final destination.

The Intention was to use gasoline engines on the new line but this idea has been abandoned, and small steam locomotives will be used. The road will be standard gauge, and will, it is usderstood, be connected with the Chesapeake and Ohlo tracks, so that the water front may be reached.

Madison, June 23, 1906.

My Dear Mrs. Randolph—Your kind personal letter of June 11th, followed by yours of June 19th, containing the greetings and thanks of Richmond Chapter. Daughters of the Confederacy, lie before me, and I can hardly reply in fitting terms to your tender words. If I have done anything to help my sisters of Richmond, Virginia, or the South in their work of remembrance of heroic brothers, I am truly glad. With my own heart full of love towards those who wore the blue, I as reverently place upon the right. Could mortal man do more?

I rejoice with you in the completed erected monument, and I can understand how you gathered here a little and there a little to meet the expense.

I regoret that my duties elsewhere in our State prevented my being present at the hour of unveiling, But with my dear husband I stood beside it on last Sabbath, and thought of you and wished you might see it and the surrounding scenes. It is a beautiful spot and a fitting monul...nt. The work is well and beautifully done; the carved names cut deep and read clear. Flowers covered the base; shrubs and peonies and roses bloomed fair and sweet, and the grave of Mrs. Waterman was piled high with flowers, rare and beautiful. Many visited the spot, young and old, and talked of "her and her boys," and it gave me pleasure to drop here and there a word for those who kept in remembrance their dear dead. I hope I may meet you some day in fair Richmond, and clasp hands. the mountains of Western North Carolina.

The groom is the traveling representative of a New York concern covering the Carolina territory, and the young couple will make their home in Greenshoro after their bridal trip.
